Story Title Here

click on it, and it will replace this photo and automatically re-size your photo to the correct size. You may have to tweak the size just a little. Text wrapping is set to wrap around your photo so long as it is on top in the page layer order. However you may want to tweak it a little, using the "edit wrap points" option to move it away from the photo a little to expose the frame. I've done that on this photo but you will lose that when you replace it.

This text looks a little funny on the screen because it's rotated to slant with the background, but it will look perfect when it is printed.

Story Title

This space can contain any arrangement of photos and text your content calls for. Be creative, but avoid a cluttered look. :-)

The color of this text is CMYK—C44, M6, Y8, K50. In RGB colors it's R78, G118, B133.

This text box is not moveable or scalable apart from the footprint graphic below. If you like this color scheme but the footprint graphic doesn't fit with your layout plans, just crop this graphic down to just this text box. Then you will have a light blue, scalable text box with a light paint splatter in the bottom half of the box.

STORY TITLE

It's okay to put a short story here. Even a small photograph placed on top of the paint splatter background will look fine. You'll defeat the design, however, if you place any object or text on top of any part of the footprint.

Replace the photo above with one that illustrates your story. The frame must be on top of the photo in the page layer order. Zoom way in to make it easier to re-size your photo to fit the frame exactly. You can also resize the frame to fit the size photo you want to use. Of course, if you don't want to use the frame just drag it off to the pasteboard.

This text box background is scalable and moveable. If it doesn't fit with your layout plans just drag it off to the pasteboard.
